Prevas distributor for testing systems WATS and skyWATS

Prevas has signed an agreement with Norwegian Virinco for sales of the WATS and skyWATS testing systems in Scandinavia. With these tools, test data can be read in real time from any location in the world. It will be a valuable complement to Prevas' other products and services.

WATS and skyWATS are powerful systems for monitoring and controlling test data. Among other things, the tools gather data from testing and repair stations and transform it into data that is easy to analyze and evaluate. Moreover, the skyWATS testing system is an inexpensive, cloud-based version that enables data collection in real time from all over the world. Prevas can now deliver, install and adapt the systems to satisfy customers' needs and thus strengthen their competitiveness.

"Virinco's WATS system is a perfect fit for Prevas' product portfolio," says Søren W. Mathiasen, sales and marketing manager at Prevas A/S. "Thanks to the new agreement, Prevas can provide high quality solutions on all levels in automatic testing systems. "This applies to everything from special development of measurement instruments, integration of testing equipment and testing software to effective connections between the testing systems and a company's other systems."

Development of testing systems goes hand in hand with Prevas' expertise in electronics development of very complex products for the pharmaceutical industry for instance, where testing is an absolute requirement during development and production.
